2012-13 SEASON PREVIEW

The Oklahoma State equestrian team had a successful 2011-12 season, capped off by another impressive performance at the Varsity Equestrian National Championship.

The Cowgirls finished 8-4 on the season, including a 6-2 mark at home. The Pokes earned another Big 12 Championships and a reserve National Championship in western.

Oklahoma State is eager to ride in the 2012-13 season with many returning competitors accompanied by a cast of new talent. The 2012 recruiting class brought in another highly touted group of student-athletes from across the country.

Head coach Larry Sanchez, now in his 14th year at the helm of the Cowgirls equestrian program, will have plenty of talent to work with, both young and veteran, to help him bring back another Big 12 Championship to Stillwater and make another run at the Varsity Equestrian National Championship.

The future looks especially promising for the Cowgirls' Western team, who wrapped up last year with a 10-2-4 record and a reserve National Championship after falling to Texas A&M in a tie breaker.

In the reining discipline, OSU has two returning student-athletes that combined for 19 head-to-head wins last year and were both All-Americans. Jenna Blumer picked up 10 wins last season while then Freshman Katy Krshka had 9. Both of these riders are back this season, but they have big shoes to fill as graduates Caroline Daniels who was an All-American, Rachel Houchin and Christy McElreath combined for 26 victories last season.

The horsemanship riders also expect plenty of success in 2012-13, as All-Americans Krshka and Lauren Halvorson return after claiming a total of 24 wins combined a year ago. Marissa Dalton and Lindsey McMullen are also back this season after strong seasons last year.

The hunter seat team will look to fill a big hole in 2012-13 after the departure of All-American Jordan White as she combined for a team high 11 wins in equitation on the flat.

Equitation on the flat will be led by Ali Rose and Ellie Sparks, who combined to win 20 of their head-to-head meets last season. Losing White will be difficult to overcome but up and coming junior Samantha Harrison might have what it takes to fill in those shoes.

Equitation over fences will be led by both Samantha Harrison and Allison Joyce this season after the two combined for 16 head-to-head victories last season.

Oklahoma State will compete in six matches during the fall portion of the schedule, hosting Baylor, TCU and Kansas State and traveling to face Auburn, South Carolina and South Dakota State.

On the spring slate, OSU will compete in eight meets including match ups against Big 12 rivals Baylor, TCU and Kansas State. The Cowgirls then look to defend their Big 12 Championship in Stillwater, Okla. on March 29-30 in Stillwater, followed by the VENC in Waco, Texas.

The 2012-13 season should be an exciting one with stout competition, as well as one with many high expectations.

He has served as the spokesperson for the Varsity Equestrian Steering Committee, which is responsible for the development, organization and implementation of all aspects involved with assembling varsity equestrian as an emerging NCAA sport.

A native of Colorado, Sanchez began his intercollegiate coaching career at New Mexico State in 1993 and quickly organized one of the nation's top programs in the IHSA. Under his leadership, NMSU won national titles in 1995, 1997 and 1998.

Season In Review 2011-12

The Oklahoma State equestrian team entered the 2011-12 season looking to improve on its finishes in both the Big 12 and NCEA national championships from the prior season. Consider it mission accomplished.

The Cowgirls stumbled out of the gates, losing four of their first six matches. However, after that, OSU went on a tear, winning seven consecutive matches, all against top-10 opponents, including a huge 13-10 win over No. 1 Georgia. It was the final competition in Stillwater for the seniors, and they made it one to remember, winning four head-to-head points and two MVPs.

"I am very proud of the way we rode today, especially our seniors," head coach Larry Sanchez said. "Georgia is a very good team and are well coached. I look forward to seeing them again at Nationals."

Two weeks after the regular season finale, an 11-9 win over Kansas State, the Cowgirls headed to Manhattan, Kan. To compete at the Big 12 Championships.

The Big 12 semis featured the Cowgirls in a rematch against the host, Kansas State. OSU took down the Wildcats again, 9-7.

In the Big 12 Championship, the Cowgirls faced the Texas A&M Aggies, who beat them, 14-8, earlier in the season. It was a tightly contested match, ending in an 8-8 deadlock. When the raw scores were calculated, OSU came out on top, 3329-3326. The Cowgirls became the first team in Big 12 history with multiple conference titles.

"This win is a good end to a lot of hard work," Sanchez said. "I could not be more proud of the way that our ladies rode this weekend and where they are mentally at this point in the season."

At the NCEA National Championships in Waco, Texas, the hunter seat team came up just short of a major upset in the quarterfinals, falling to Georgia in raw scores.

As for the western squad, they bounced TCU in the quarters and took down Georgia in the semis to set up a national championship match against familiar foe Texas A&M.

As is custom between these two teams, it was another close match, coming down to the final ride. A video review on OSU's final ride determined they did not get the points necessary to win, and fell to the Aggies, 1,116.5-975.5, on raw scores. It was the fifth time since 2003 that the Cowgirls either won the national title or reserve national title on the western side.

"I could not be more proud of the effort the girls gave this entire weekend," Sanchez said. "They not only represented OSU in the arena with quality rides, but maintained a high level of sportsmanship and integrity throughout the event."

OSU finished with a 9-5 overall record, going 4-8-5 in hunter seat and 9-4-3 in western. In 2012-13, the Cowgirls will look to win their third Big 12 Championship, and will have the opportunity to do so at home, with the championships being in Stillwater. After that, they hope to get another shot at an NCEA national title.

Varsity Equestrian History

In 1998 the NCAA declared equestrian as an emerging sport. As of September of 2007, there are nineteen (19) Division 1 and four (4) Division II colleges and universities who participate at the varsity level with new programs being added every year. The average size of current women's equestrian teams is 46 with a range from 20 to 100 athletes.

From the Kentucky Derby, to the Olympics, to the Varsity Equestrian National Championship, equestrian sports are already in the American spotlight. Major national, satellite, and cable corporations already host the sport of equestrian. You can watch horses on NBC, ESPN, Outdoor Life Network, TVG, and College Sports TV to name a few. There are already weekly programs dedicated to the horse, one of which, the American Quarter Horse Association's "America's Horse" televises the Varsity Equestrian National Championship, the precursor to the NCAA Championship. To assist in promotion of Varsity Equestrian and to provide a media outlet for disbursement of the current news regarding equestrian, we are proud to announce the development of www.varsityequestrian.com, 'The Official Web site of NCAA Varsity Equestrian'. Lastly, there are roughly 250 magazines, newspapers and newsletters devoted to horses; many of which already cover collegiate equestrian.

In previous years, all collegiate equestrian competitions were conducted under the auspices of the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association (IHSA). Since its inaugural year in 2000, Varsity Equestrian has implemented a dual-meet format in competitions. Teams compete in four events: Hunter Seat Equitation Over Fences, Hunter Seat Equitation on the Flat, Western Horsemanship, and Reining. An equal number of riders from each team compete head-to-head on each event on the same set of horses. The lowest score is dropped before computing the team score.

Post-season competition:

The Varsity Equestrian National Championships has become an annual competition since 2002. This competition will become the NCAA Championship. There are three titles at stake each year: the Overall Team Championship, the Hunt Seat Team Championship, and the Western Team Championship. Our past title holders include:

Governance of the Sport

Varsity Equestrian Steering Committee:
The heart of any organization is its people. Besides the outstanding athletes, Equestrian is fortunate to have coaches who give of their time to serve as leaders for the sport. Teamed with athletic administrators, these coaches comprise the Varsity Equestrian Steering Committee. The committee's charge is to develop procedures, legislation, and advance the sport via promotion and corporate sponsors. An annual meeting of the entire steering committee is held annually at the USEF Headquarters in Lexington, Kentucky.

United State Equestrian Federation (USEF):
As the National Governing Body for equestrian sport in the United States and of Varsity Equestrian, USEF shares the sport with the world while advocating fairness, excellence and equine welfare in all aspects of horsemanship and competition. USEF sends athletes and teams of the highest caliber to represent our country at home and abroad. Through more than 2,800 recognized competitions in 27 breeds and disciplines, and with 86,000 members USEF continues to grow and acknowledge equestrian athletes at every level. Learn more about USEF at www.usef.org.

American Quarter Horse Association (AQHA):
With more than 350,000 worldwide members and 4.5 million registered American Quarter Horses in 80 different countries, the American Quarter Horse Association is the world's largest equine association and a strong supporter of Varsity Equestrian. AQHA offers diverse programs for all types and levels of horse owners, from competitive to recreation. Annually, AQHA approves around 2,900 horse shows and special events that culminate at three different World Championships: the AQHA Youth World Show, the AQHA Open/Amateur World Show and the AQHA Select World Show. In all, over 927,000 entries compete year-round at the AQHA approved shows. Visit www.aqha.com for more information.

The Varsity Equestrian Steering Committee is working diligently to advance equestrian from emerging to full championship status. The horse industry stands firmly behind the sport and is working hand-in-hand to lay a solid foundation on which the sport can continue to grow and expand.

Judging & Jumping Guide

In hunt seat equitation and horsemanship events, it is the rider and not the horse that is being judged. The actions of the horse are important only as they reflect on the horsemanship of the rider. Thus it is possible for a rider whose horse "acts up" to be placed among the winners because in the judges' opinion she met the problem skillfully and solved it. Conversely, a seemingly good ride may mean nothing more than a placed horse carrying an unwitting passenger. The rider is always being judged in horsemanship classes, whether the class calls for jumping or whether it is run "on the flat" without jumps.

Judging equitation classes is not done by a mathematical formula. Judges are usually looking for style of riding, accuracy and judgment in the use of the aids (hands, seat and legs), suppleness and lightness of hands and a general impression of complete, quiet control. The program description of equitation classes makes reference to tests for riders in the different classes. This refers to the test of horsemanship that has been established by the American Horse Shows Association for all recognized shows and is published in the annual rulebook. Equitation judges must choose from these individual tests in judging horsemanship. The common criteria are:

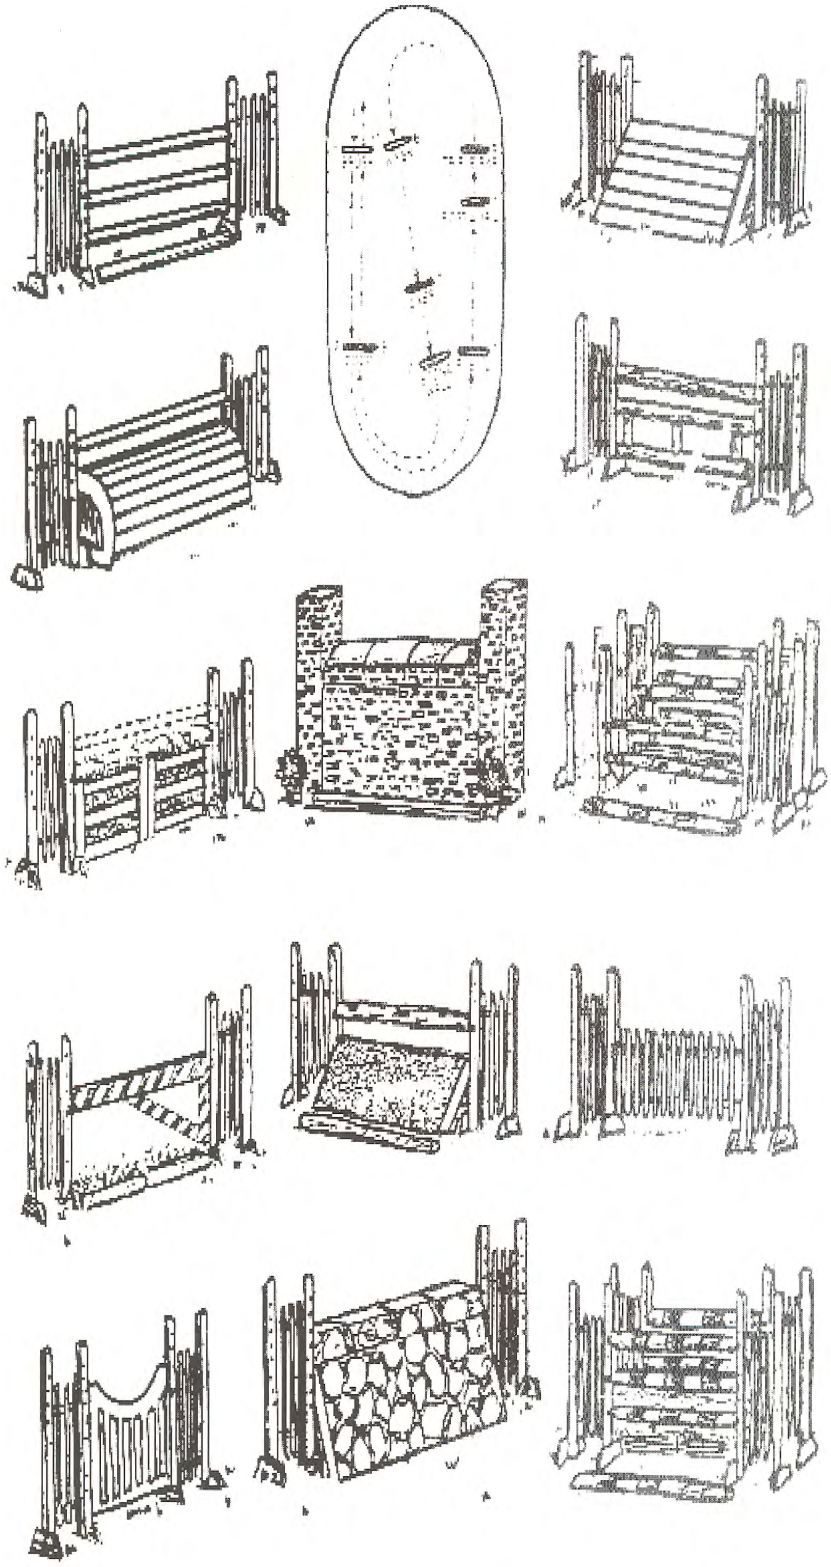
Posture: The position of the body, the legs, the hands, the head and eyes are all indicators of good horsemanship. The rider's back should be straight, chest out, head and eyes ahead in an alert, relaxed position. The appearance of the rider should give the impression of alert buoyancy. The movements of her body should be those that derive naturally from the horse's movements. Correct posture at all gaits and in all movements is a basic element that judges look for in horsemanship.

Hands: A rider's hands should keep a light but certain contact with the mouth of the horse. Reins should be on a straight line from the horse's mouth to the rider's elbow.

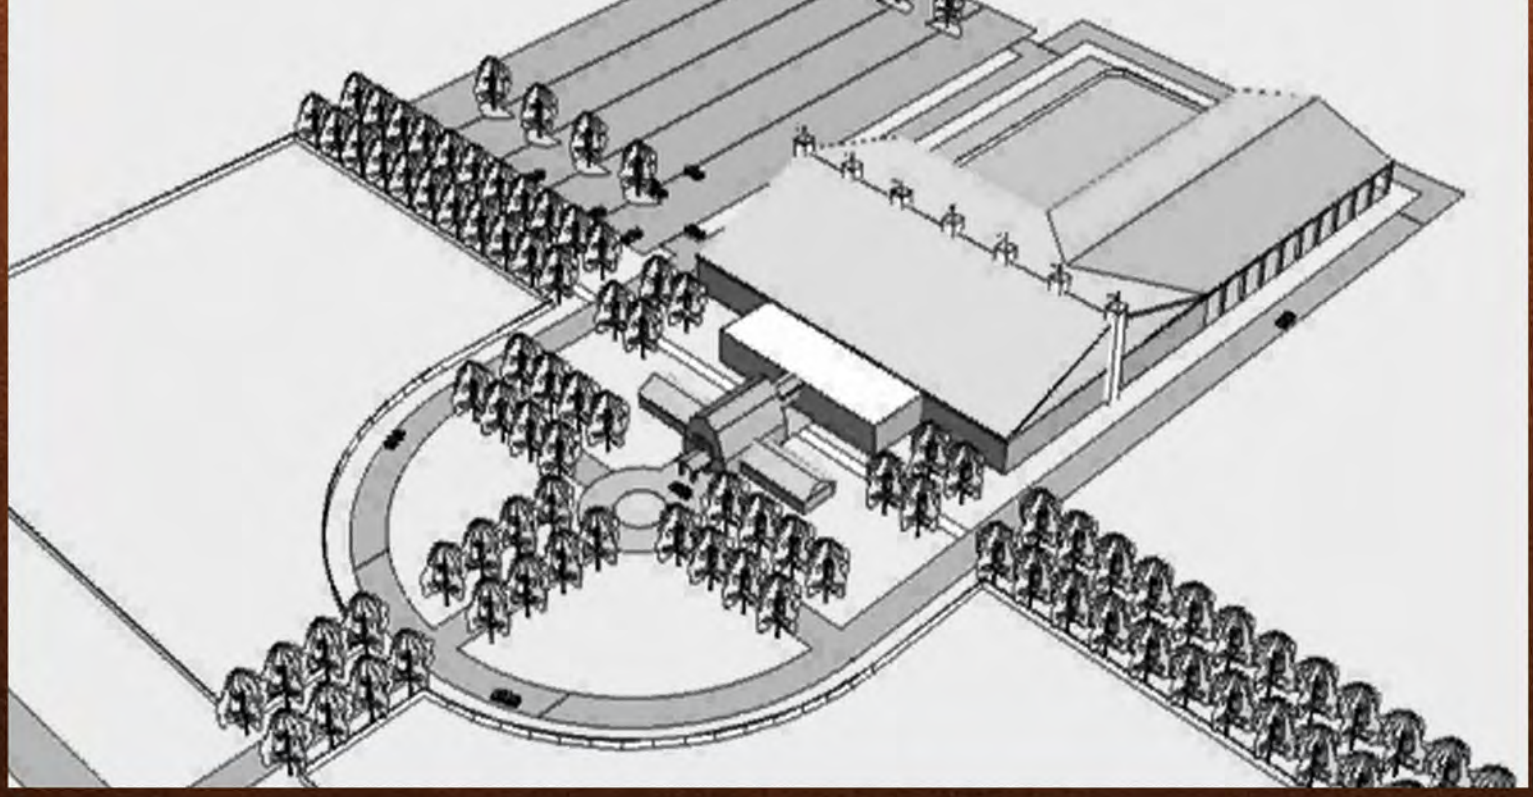
Wrong lead: In a canter, the horse leading with the wrong leg is "on the wrong lead". Moving clockwise a horse should be leading with his right front leg. Moving counterclockwise, he should lead with the left.

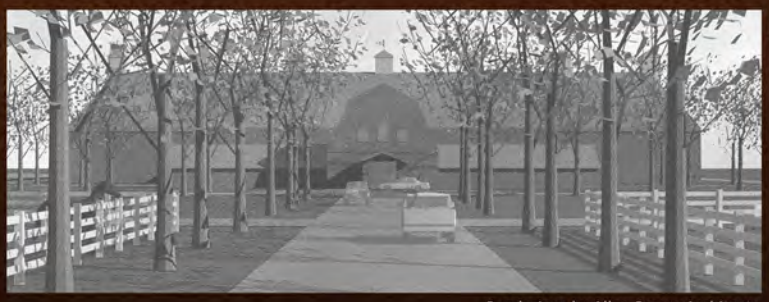
Legs: Heels should be down. No excessive weight should be carried on the stirrup irons. Legs should be quiet under the rider at all times.

Diagonals: This fault may appear while a rider is posting (rising and sinking back in the saddle in rhythm with the horse's trot) at the trot. The rider's movement in posting should be impelled by the forward movement of the horse's inside rear leg; that is, the rear leg that is closest to the center of the ring.



NEW FACILITIES





Renderings by Allen Brown Architects

In the near future, OSU is looking to make a big move. The new home to the team will be a state-of-the-art facility and include every perk that any equestrian squad would enjoy to have in a facility. This new facility will feature three arenas, including an indoor, covered and outdoor arena.

The team's horses will reside in a barn that will include 30 stalls that would make any horse feel like he is staying in a five-star hotel. The 30 stalls will run the length of the barn on a single alley way.

The facility will include a visitors/team center that will be approximately 4,800 square feet of space just for riders. This space will be used to showcase the team's accomplishments over the years and also provide the team with a locker room.

The coaches' offices will also be located in the new facility, with each coach to have their own office. Not only will the coaches and team have their own accommodations, but the facility will also house a veterinary area.
